Ieoh Ming Pei (04/26/1917â€”05/16/2019) was a Chinese-American architect. In 1935, he moved to the US from China to study at UPenn and MIT. After graduating, he joined the Harvard Graduate School of Design (GSD) and became a friend of the Bauhaus architects Walter Gropius and Marcel Breuer. In 1948, Pei was recruited by New York City real estate magnate William Zeckendorf, for whom he worked for seven years before establishing his own design firm.
