Dolores Mary Eileen O'Riordan (/oʊˈrɪəˈrɪdən/; September 6, 1971 – January 15, 2018) was an Irish musician and singer-songwriter. She led the rock band The Cranberries for 13 years before the band took a break starting in 2003, reuniting in 2009. O'Riordan was known for her lilting mezzo-soprano voice, her emphasized use of yodeling and for her strong Limerick accent. Celebrate her life by posting a comment or pic to this Collective.
