Aristotle was found under a bush in the rain in San Francisco in 1997 & was so tiny when I adopted him. For 20 years he was my constant companion. Aristotle was a mouser and loved catching an occasional one while living in NYC. Aristotle never fussed. His last year of life, he was sick and unable to do many things, but I helped him and took him to his favorite vet Dr. Love (really!). I absolutely loved him. And to this day, miss him dearly.
